ABOUT BALLET HISPANICO
Celebrating 41 years of dance and culture, Ballet Hispanico was founded by Tina Ramirez and is recognized as the nation’s preeminent Latino dance organization. From its grassroots origins as a dance school and community-based performing arts troupe, Ballet Hispanico has grown to become a world-class cultural institution. The Company, School of Dance, and Education & Outreach programs serve as catalysts for cultural dialogue and are the vehicles through which Ballet Hispanico celebrates and shares the dynamic aesthetics of the Hispanic Diaspora with all communities.

Today, Ballet Hispanico remains dedicated to continuing and deepening its mission through the artistic leadership of Eduardo Vilaro, a former Ballet Hispanico Company member, as well as an educator and choreographer. Under his leadership, the organization continues to explore and preserve Hispanic cultures through dance.

TONIGHT’S PERFORMANCE
We invite you to use the following program notes as a reference for tonight’s program. These notes are meant to offer you a glimpse into the choreographer’s inspirations while creating the ballets, and should not be taken as a direct narrative to the works.

Nube Blanco (White Cloud) is inspired by Annabelle Lopez Ochoa’s childhood memories of the beautiful songs of Maria Dolores Pradera. Lopez Ochoa integrates brilliantly the Spanish zapateado technique or footwork that is found in flamenco dance and gives it a contemporary twist.

Espíritu Vivo, an exciting collaboration between Ballet Hispanico and Brooklyn-based choreographer Ronald K. Brown, explores the intersection of the African and Latino Diasporas in the Caribbean and Latin America. Using narrative, tradition, and dance forms from these regions, the work explores the stages of grief after tragedy: the news, prayer, spring and new day.

Club Havana Latin Dancing at its best. The intoxicating rhythms of the Conga, Rumba, Mambo, and Cha Cha are brought to life by choreographer Pedro Ruiz, himself a native of Cuba, as he imagined his very own “Club Havana.”

RAVI COLTRANE QUARTET

PROGRAM AND PERSONNEL WILL BE ANNOUNCED FROM THE STAGE

Sponsored by:
Ravi Coltrane is a critically acclaimed saxophonist, bandleader, composer, producer and founder of the independent record company, RKM Music. Since 1991, Mr. Coltrane has diligently forged a prominent career as a live performer, recording artist and producer, as well as an impressive list of credits and accomplishments.

2009 marked the release of Ravi Coltrane's highly anticipated Blending Times, his follow-up to the Grammy nominated In Flux (Savoy Jazz). On Blending Times, Ravi solidifies his standing as one of today's most innovative jazz artists and improvisers.

The recording is a stunning set of musically diverse, rhythmically eclectic pieces featuring his longtime bandmates—pianist Luis Perdomo, bassist Drew Gress and drummer E.J. Strickland—with guest artists Charlie Haden and harpist Brandee Younger. It captures the fluidity of the group's spontaneous improvisations as well as highlights more structured compositions of a familiar group dialogue. In essence, the title Blending Times suggest a point of convergence for the past and the present.

The ten individual tracks on this cinematic recording mesh seamlessly throughout: the sensually elegant opener “Shine” is followed by the densely percussive and sonically soaring “First Circuit”. The contemplative “A Still Life” blends into the bright and hard swinging take on Thelonius Monk’s “Epistrophy.” The haunting and moody “Almalgams” flows effortlessly into the whimsical “Narcined.” Group dynamics is in full force on Ralph Alessi’s “One Wheeler Will,” quietly fading into to the pondering yet playful “The Last Circuit” which then opens the way for a graceful “Before With After.” The session concludes with the elegiac “For Turiya.” Composed by Charlie Haden, “For Turiya,” was written for Alice Coltrane and was originally recorded by the bassist and Mrs. Coltrane in 1976.

About “For Turiya,” Coltrane says, “playing with Charlie resonates in many ways. I have known him for the majority of my life. When I was young, I heard his name often. My mother used him on most of her recordings throughout the seventies. When I decided to learn about music, I study with Charlie at Cal Arts. I learned so much from him during my time in school. Not only did he show me about the beauty of music and creating, he also provided an example of what it meant to be a working musician at the highest level.”

One of the keys to the ongoing transmission of this musical vision is the strength of the ensemble as embodied in the quality of interaction between Ravi and his band. “We’ve moved forward together in our musical communication.” he says. “These guys are all such incredible collaborators. I’ve really been fortunate in this regard.”

Born in Long Island, New York in 1965, the second son of John and Alice Coltrane, Ravi was named after Indian sitar legend Ravi Shankar. Shortly thereafter the family moved to Los Angeles, where Ravi first began developing his own personal interest in the arts. As a young man, he initially began playing clarinet and switched to saxophone in high school.

In 1991, his father’s renowned drummer, Elvin Jones, saw in Ravi an emergent authentic performer, and hired Ravi to play with his band. After his tenure with Elvin, Ravi found himself working alongside a list of names that reads like the Who’s Who of American Jazz and Pop, including McCoy Tyner, Pharoah Sanders, Carlos Santana, Wayne Shorter, Herbie Hancock, Chick Corea, John McLaughlin, Michael Brecker, George Duke, Stanley Clarke Jeff Tain”Watts, Branford Marsalis, Mark Turner, Jacky Terrasson, Jack DeJohnnette, Rashied Ali, Wallace Roney, Antoine Roney, Geri Allen, Kenny Barron, Cindy Blackman, Joe Lovano, Joanne Brackeen, Gerry Gibbs, Graham Haynes, and Steve Coleman, for whom he appears on several albums. Indeed, Ravi’s credits include recording on well over forty recordings as a sideman.

In 1997 Ravi recorded his first album as a leader, Moving Pictures (RCA Victor). In 2000, a year after marrying Kathleen Hennessy and having their first son, William, the saxophonist released the even more warmly received From the Round Box, which featured Alessi and Geri Allen, and included covers of tunes by Thelonius Monk, Ornette Coleman, and Wayne Shorter.

Prior to the 2002 release of his third solo outing Mad 6, Coltrane produced Legacy, a four-disc, thematic study of his father’s career for Verve, and co-produced and penned liner notes for the Deluxe Edition repackaging of the benchmark recording “A Love Supreme.”

In 2004, Ravi produced his mother’s return to recording after a 26-year hiatus. That album, Translinier Light (Impulse!), featured an all-star ensemble whose members included Alice, Ravi, his brother Oran, Charlie Haden, Jack DeJohnnette, James Genus, and Jeff Watts.

February of 2005 saw the release of Ravi’s fourth album, In Flux (Savoy), which was voted...
Today, Ravi continues to balance family life with a variety of musical projects. He is currently producing his first record for Blue Note Records. And he frequently tours the world with his Quartet and his unique musical world-view and talents allows him to contribute to a multitude of projects.

“I want to be involved with music that is truly honest—that’s not trying to follow trends or fit into someone’s idea about what jazz ‘is,’” Coltrane says. “To me, I’m only trying to be a musician, and we honor the legacies of those who have gone before by just playing and doing our own thing. If our generation simply copycats the greats of the past, that’s not real. It’s important to be authentic and make music that means something now. It’s exciting to be on the journey.”

RAVI COLTRANE’S ASSOCIATION WITH BLUE NOTE RECORDS

“One of the things to admire about the saxophonist Ravi Coltrane is the slow methodical way he built his career,” wrote Ben Ratliff in The New York Times, as he named Coltrane’s Grammy-nominated album In Flux (Savoy Jazz) among his Top 10 albums of 2005. Ratliff went on: “In this quartet’s sound lies an index of contemporary jazz in New York, making sense of great stylistic swaths.”

Now, at the age of 44, Coltrane arrives at Blue Note Records (the label where his father John Coltrane made his landmark 1957 album Blue Train) a powerfully mature artist with a richly diverse, yet highly distinctive concept as both a saxophonist and a composer. His longtime quartet has established itself as one of the most consistently thrilling and acclaimed working groups in jazz today.

“"But if we are to talk about the future of classical music in America, sooner or later, the Knights will come up...musicians with a modern sensibility, a wide repertory of works new and old, along with a crusading musical mission...”

- The Los Angeles Times

ABOUT THE KNIGHTS

The Knights are a fellowship of adventurous musicians who cultivate collaborative music making and who creatively engage audiences in the shared joy of musical performance. Based in New York City, The Knights expand the orchestral concert experience with their diverse programming, innovative formats, and unique atmosphere of camaraderie that creates the intimacy and immediacy of chamber music.

Led by conductor Eric Jacobsen, The Knights perform in a wide spectrum of concert venues, including Carnegie Hall, Lincoln Center, Tonic, the Brooklyn Lyceum, Le Poisson Rouge, Celebrate Brooklyn, Baryshnikov Arts Center, Central Park, Mass MoCA, and the Whitney Museum. Also in demand on the international stage, they have appeared at the Dresden Musikfestspiele, the National Gallery in Dublin, and Berlin’s Radialsystem. Their expanding presence on the music festival scene includes performances at the Ravinia Festival, the International Beethovenfest in Bonn, and at the Caramoor Fall Festival with Yo-Yo Ma.

The orchestra’s extensive repertoire features traditional and contemporary masterworks of classical, popular, and world music in collaboration with leading artists including sopranos Dawn Upshaw and Susan Narucki, violinist Gil Shaham, flutist Paula Robison, singer-songwriter (and Knights violinist) Christina Courtin, Iranian ney (Persian bamboo flute) virtuoso Siamak Jahangiri, pianist Steven Beck, fiddler Mark O’Connor, Syrian clarinetist/composer Kinan Azmeh, and cellist Jan Vogler. Dedicated to the music of our time, The Knights have served as the resident chamber orchestra of the MATA Festival for young composers, premiering new works by Christopher Tignor and Prix-de-Rome winner Yotam Haber. The ensemble has worked closely with composer Osvaldo Golijov, performing his “Passion According to St. Mark” in the Canary Islands in May 2009 and several of his works with Dawn Upshaw. In a unique site-specific song-cycle with text based on conversation overheard in transient public spaces, The Knights and soprano Susan Narucki have taken audiences on a journey through composer Lisa Bielawa’s “Chance Encounter at Seward Park in New York’s Lower East Side,” at the Whitney Museum, and in a recording for Philip Glass’s Orange Mountain Music label (released December 2010).

The Knights grew from informal chamber music readings at the home of brothers Eric and Colin Jacobsen, now the group’s conductor and rotating concertmaster, respectively. The collaborative spirit of chamber music continues within the ensemble, which provides a forum for individual ideas and radical inquiry. Members of The Knights are graduates of the Juilliard, Curtis, Manhattan, Mannes, and Eastman music schools. As soloists, members have performed with the New York Philharmonic, the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, the San Francisco Symphony, the Israel Philharmonic, and Lincoln Center’s Mostly Mozart orchestra. Equally successful as chamber and orchestral musicians, they participate in the world’s most prestigious music festivals, including Marlboro, Tanglewood, Verbier, Stillwater, Lucerne, Salzburg, and Moritzburg, and perform with the Royal Concertgebouw Orchestra, Metropolitan Opera Orchestra, Philadelphia Orchestra, Milwaukee Symphony, New York Philharmonic, and Yo-Yo Ma’s Silk Road Ensemble. Many members of The Knights bring talents that go beyond traditional orchestral skills; there are composers, arrangers, singer-songwriters, and improvisers who bring a range of cultural influences to the group from jazz and klezmer genres to pop and indie rock music.

The Knights recently recorded two albums for SONY Classical. The first project featured internationally recognized cellist Jan Vogler in the Shostakovich Cello Concerto No. 1 from a live recording at New York’s cutting-edge concert venue, Le Poisson Rouge. Also on the album are arrangements of Shostakovich waltzes and the Jimi Hendrix song “Machine Gun.” Their second album, “New Worlds,” features works by Copland, Dvorak, Ives, Gabriela Lena Frank, and Osvaldo Golijov. The Knights have also joined Lara and Scott St. John for a Mozart concetti album on the Ancalagon label. The orchestra’s first solo record featuring the music of Schubert, Glass, Satie, and Feldman will be released by Ancalagon later this year. The Knights are represented by Opus 3 Artists.
